

BBQ Awesome... Weather, not so much

We learned Saturday that our local weather predictions are, well, crap. Read on.

What we did last week:

We had a great turnout, 19 bikes and 25 riders, for the ride to the Salt Lick in Driftwood. The weather predictions all said it would be a nice warm day to ride. In reality, the mist and the cool air made for a shiver to the bone ride but that didn't phase you hard core riders! The Salt Lick had wonderful BBQ as always and they even had portable heaters to warm ourselves on. The roads were a bit wet but there were no accidents or incidents. We won't count Ana finally breaking in her new bike. It finally cleared up and warmed up on the way home. Overall, a great ride even with the weather.

In other news:

You only have a few days left to register for the Texas State HOG Rally 2013 for a chance to win a free night's stay. Here's the link: <http://txstatehogrally.com/>

I like to listen to music on a ride. Some songs just seem made for a ride on a curvy country road. For me, it's "Free Bird." What is your song that no ride should be without? Please reply and I'll compile them and post them in our next newsletter.

The rally is coming up and we're still looking for folks who want to be part of the skill and competition bike games. Interested? Please reply.

We've recently accelerated our road captain training program. If you're interested in becoming one, please contact me or our Head RC.
