Odds and Ends

Another LSR in the books. Great weather all weekend and awesome camaraderie all the way around. Getting there, we unfortunately lost a rider in Seguin. That knocked us down to 10 bikes and 14 total Chapter members. What should have been an easy fix turned out to be beyond stupid. Combined with H.O.G. towing completely screwing over our Chapter member made for a level of pissed off that is still being addressed. We got about ¾ the way there and evidently the pace was (perhaps?) too brutal for two of our intrepid riders and they decided to tap out and work their way to their B' n B via a different route. We later found out that the ice had melted in the cooler that held their beer and thus the situation was dire.

We spent Friday Harborside and Saturday on the Seawall side. Attendance seemed to be down a tad. So that made shopping and motorcycle viewing on Friday evening at the Strand pretty awesome. Additionally, there were still many works of art on two wheels that either rolled or were on display. No one was bored as there was something for everyone.

We bumped into several other Chapter members, so our Chapter was well represented. We did a leisurely route heading in that took us roughly 280 miles. Coming home we went VFR direct and cut that down to 240 miles. Overall, we put on over 700 miles this weekend.

We watched the weather for Sunday that was supposedly coming in from the West/Southwest. Something about folks and animals needing to line up 2x2 on high ground had us groaning. However, we didn't see any rain until Hallettsville and that was spotty at best. The rain just never really appeared. Just enough spitting from the clouds though to mess up everyone's scoot.

Coming through Luling, Tony evidently saw a topless woman zip by on a motorcycle and he then shifted gears and went into hyperspace. We didn't catch up to him until Seguin. That left Sam and Adrienne (aka the human banana) working as our lead co-captains for a tad. Great job ladies. Not sure if Tony caught up to the two wheeled Lady Madonna and he isn't talking but he is now busy and unavailable for the rest of the week.

Overall, another great Rally. LSR is the largest 4-day Rally in the US. Pencil in on your calendar the first weekend in November 2027 to hit next year's. Regards to all. F2
